

Drama Beyond Classroom Programme, Sep 2022

Lanka Children's and Youth Theatre Foundation (LCYTF):

In 1981 Somalatha Subasinghe founded the Lanka Children's and Youth Theatre Foundation (LCYTF) and Somalatha Subasinghe Play House, the theatre production and training arm of LCYTF, to promote theatre production and performances specifically for children and youth, training of actors, and research on theatre studies. Since 1981 the organisation has produced a repertoire of mainly musical theatre for children and youth and award-winning mainstream art theatre productions and performed them in the island as well as abroad. In January 2007, this institution was incorporated in the parliament under the Act No. 3 of 2007. At present LCYTF is the topmost institution for children and youth theatre productions in Sri Lanka.

Introduction:

The prime objective of the programme is to make drama and theatre learning an enjoyable experience for the participating children. All aspects of drama and theatre are presented to the child in an easy-to-understand way so that the artistic taste, cheerfulness and playful sense of the child is enhanced. The programme is based on created activities, and they give the child the opportunity to experience the most important learning outcomes of drama and theatre such as sense of caring, world awareness, experience in human relationships and socio-cultural values, a sense of basic art forms and more importantly confidence and dignity.

To Whom:

The programme is designed primarily for grade eight to eleven children who offer drama and theatre as a subject at school. However, since the programme is activity-based any students who has the knack to be creative and adventurous too can join the programme. For such students the activities of the programme can be considered supplementary to the formal education the child obtains in schools.

Learning Outcome:

This programme gives the child the opportunity to learn and understand the basics of
